

Sell it

By tonight: your price, proposal and rehearsed pitch locked by lunchtime, then a closed deal, or a clear next step.

3

PRICE TIERS

09:00-17:00

TODAY'S HOURS

05

Today, start to finish

09:00-09:10	Morning huddle 👥 TOGETHER
09:10-09:40	Set your price ∞ 1:1
09:40-10:10	Say it without flinching, then a round-robin 👥 TOGETHER
10:10-10:25	Break ☕ BREAK
10:25-11:05	Triage and ship your top 3 fixes 👤 SOLO
11:05-11:30	Write the proposal, prep the paperwork 👤 SOLO
11:30-12:00	Final rehearsal ∞ 1:1
12:00-12:45	Lunch ☕ BREAK
12:45-16:00	Speak to your prospect: the sales call 🚪 OUT

16:00-16:30

 SOLO

Close the deal: record the win, send the paperwork

16:30-17:00

 SOLO

Review the week: index artefacts, build your audit pack

09:00-09:10

👥 TOGETHER

Morning huddle

Last one. Say today's number: your price, or the one outcome you want on the record by tonight, a signed deal or a dated next step.

09:10-09:40

∞ 1:1

Set your price

Founders freeze on price, and a buyer decides in seconds whether it feels fair, so we anchor on value and engineer the middle package to win.

D5-PRICE-NUMBER

- Three named packages: good, better, best
- One recommended
- Every price tied to a value assumption you can defend out loud, to Seb, first

09:40-10:10

👥 TOGETHER

Why founders flinch

You've spent five days making this. Of course the number feels enormous to you. It doesn't feel enormous to them, they don't know what it cost you to build.

THE TELL

Watch for this in yourself

If you say the price and immediately add a reason, a discount, or a joke, you've just told them the price is negotiable before they've said a word.

The technique, step by step

01 Say the number, flat

No preamble, no “so it's, um”. State it like a fact, because it is one.

02 Stop talking

Whoever speaks next after the price loses. Count to five in your head if you have to.

03 Let the silence sit

Silence feels like ten minutes and is actually three seconds. Don't fill it.

04 Answer the objection, don't apologise for it

“It's too expensive” is a question about value, not a verdict on you.

09:40-10:10

👥 TOGETHER

Field the objection

CLICK A CARD TO SEE THE REPLY

THEY SAY

"That's more than I expected"

TRY INSTEAD

"Compared to what you're doing today, what would make that worth it?"

THEY SAY

"Can you do it cheaper?"

TRY INSTEAD

"I can do less for less. What would you want to cut?"

THEY SAY

"Let me think about it"

TRY INSTEAD

"Of course. What specifically do you need to think through?"

THEY SAY

"We don't have budget right now"

TRY INSTEAD

"When does the budget reset, and can we pencil something in for then?"

09:40-10:10

👥 TOGETHER

What it sounds like

SAYING IT, AND HOLDING THE SILENCE

FOUNDER GOOD MOVE

It's GBP 2,500 a month.

FOUNDER GOOD MOVE

...

PROSPECT

Right. That's more than I budgeted for, honestly.

FOUNDER GOOD MOVE

Compared to what you're doing today, what would make that worth it?

FOUNDER, TEMPTING, BUT DON'T AVOID

"I could probably do it a bit cheaper if that helps."

09:40-10:10

👥 TOGETHER

Then: round-robin

Group Whole room, standing in a circle

Bring None, just your number

Time ~10 minutes

Each turn State your price, flat. Then stop talking.

- + The room fires back one real objection, the kind a prospect would actually raise.
- + Answer it without apologising. Then it passes to the next person around the circle.

DEBRIEF

Which objection actually rattled you, and what will you say differently next time?

10:10-10:25

Break

Back at 10:25

10:25-11:05

SOLO

Triage and ship your top 3 fixes

Today is not for new features: it's for making one clean route work so a real person can watch it and believe it.

01

Triage

A ruthless three-item fix list, everything else parked or roadmapped.

02

Ship

Build the three fixes, run the demo once end to end, commit with a timestamp.

11:05-11:30

SOLO

Write the proposal, prep the paperwork

Proposal

One page a named buyer can say yes to: their problem, one numeric target, a delivery window inside six weeks, one price, one next step.

Paperwork

An engagement letter, terms, an invoice from the correct trading entity, and a payment method that clears today. Drafts only.

11:30-12:00

∞ 1:1

Final rehearsal

One last run with Seb before the real call: the price, the objections, the close. Have a qualified lawyer review any paperwork before use, these are drafts, not final legal documents.

- Say the price out loud until it stops wobbling
- 8+ objections drilled
- Know your one next step if they say not yet

12:00-12:45

Lunch

Back at 12:45

12:45-16:00

🔗 OUT

Speak to your prospect

The sales call, working the room, closing the deal. Each meeting was booked individually yesterday, so this block runs as a window, not something the whole room shares.

A week of work is worth nothing until someone commits, and most deals die in the last ten minutes because the founder never actually asks.

D5-CLOSE

16:00-16:30

SOLO

Close the deal

- Record the outcome at whichever tier lands: cash, deposit, signed paid pilot, or signed LOI
- Send the paperwork the same hour, while the yes is still warm

16:30-17:00

SOLO

Review the week

Index every artefact from the week into one audit pack: the MVP, the pitch deck, the sales deck, the live page, the launch checklist. One honest link, not five scattered folders.

- Every headline number stated plainly
- Target versus what actually happened
- What it takes to keep the MVP running after this week

See you next time

01

State your number, whatever it happened to be

02

File the audit pack before anyone leaves

03

Decide together what comes next

Say the number without flinching.

Digital Jersey · Founder Bootcamp

Bring the idea. We'll bring the rest. — Seb